DEEP MINING IN TONOPAH

ONCE upon a time there was a bogey, a veritable bogey, out here in Tonopah. Scientists classified it as "Dacite intrusion." The intruder received a soury welcome from the shareholders, the business men and all who had their little stake planted in Tonopah and their future builded on its permanency. It was feared, almost accepted as the inevitable, that this dacite absolutely precluded any possible continuation of the mineralization to greater depths, just as the "alkalite" at Manhattan and Goldfield is now the bogey man, but may not be if some corporation has the temerity and the gambling spirit to pierce the flow.

The dacite intrusion is now almost forgotten, it having been found that it was no more a limitation to depth of veins than the old horror of the Mother Lode of California, the horizontal "barren zone," beneath which tens of millions of dollars have been taken and will yet be extracted.

The foregoing rambling paragraphs are simply preliminary to the statement that deep mining—as well as long mining and wide mining—is about to be undertaken in this district. At present the Mizpah shaft stands first, because it was the pioneer, but the Halifax with its 1700 feet is a trifle deeper from the surface, and even more if the roll of the country is considered. The Victor is the deepest working in ore, the 1540 level, with the Cash Boy a close second.

But all records are to be smashed within the next few months. Machinery is now being lowered into the Victor shaft that will be used to tap the Extension ore bodies at 1540 feet from the surface. The After All will be explored by the long crosscut tunnel that is now under way at a similar depth, and the Bonanza is headed for the 1900 foot point. These are but a few of the deep mining projects that are now under way, reminiscent of Jim Butler's repartee, once quoted in these columns, when informed by a great expert that his veins did not go down: "Well, by heck, they don't go up."

HIGH COST OF PAPER

THE exigencies of war brings home the fact that this country is beginning to suffer from the scarcity of dyes and chemicals and with the announcement of the existence of a famine in print paper. Last week representatives of the leading daily newspapers of the country gathered in response to a call issued by Victor F. Lawson, of Chicago, to devise some means to reduce the consumption of white paper, since a number of daily papers whose contracts are about to expire are actually threatened with suspension of publication because of the inability of the mills anywhere to supply paper. The call for the meeting was sent to every publisher of the United States, and those who could not personally attend the deliberations were invited to join in the resolutions adopted to effect a saving in the quantity of white paper by reducing the waste as much as possible. This can be done in one substantial way, and that is to refrain from accepting returns from news agents and thus holding circulation down to the actual requirements of the business office and keeping strictly within the limits of a paid up circulation. This has always been the aim of the Bonanza and it is with pardonable pride that the management reaffirms its belief in sending out only such papers as are ordered with the intention of paying therefor and without any hope of returning unsold copies.

That the attitude of the management of the Bonanza may be clearly understood it is officially announced that no return copies will be received from news agents or others and that all orders will have to be paid for whether the papers are sold or not.

AMERICA HANDICAPPED

GREAT BRITAIN has been the chief financier of the European war. She has been carrying more than 5,000,000 men under arms; many of her industries have been engaged in producing war munitions; and a large portion of her merchant marine has been devoted to the transportation of those munitions. Never, perhaps, in the history of the world, has a nation labored under greater handicaps to its industrial and commercial development than has the island of the doughty John Bull since 1914.

But in his trade with Uncle Sam he has found that that shrewd old Yankee is also saddled with a handicap quite as great, namely the Underwood tariff law. This law, which is not quite ten per cent better than absolute free trade, enabled Great Britain to control the American market to the extent of $275,000,000 during the 11 months of the fiscal year 1916, ended May last, compared with $269,000,000 for a similar period in 1914, eight months of which was under the Democratic tariff law and a period of peace. Yes, sir, England has fought, fended and financed in the great war, and still increased her exports to us $7,000,000 over the 1914 period.

APPLAUSE BOUGHT WITH GERMAN COIN

(By Associated Press.)

ATHENS, August 4.—A dramatic moment marked a military horse show given recently in the stadium. The jumping and riding exhibitions were over. The white skirted evezones had marched impressively past the royal tribune, and two regiments of soldiers were drawn up before King Constantine and Queen Sophie to sing Greek folk songs. Several songs passed pleasantly enough. Then there came one about the exploits of Constantine Paleologue, emperor of Byzance.

Even to those who could not understand the words there was something stirring in the martial lines. And when a thousand voices rang out: "The Warrior King Unsheathe His Sword," suddenly the whole mass blackening the gleaming marble of the stadium rose as of one impulse, applauding crying out: "Yes! Yes! The Warrior King Will Unsheathe His Sword!" and craning their necks to see their sovereign, their warrior king of today.

Constantine I. sat erect and rigid in his smart, white uniform—a handsome, martial figure himself. He heard; but he made no movement. His left hand grasped the hilt of his sword. But the sword remained unsheathed, and the song went on. Only when the king had gone and the crowd was pouring down the street that runs in front of the royal residence, some man shouted that it was shameful that the applause for the king had been paid for by German money.

A crowd gathered instantly. There was a shot. An officer cut the man who had shouted in the head with his sabre. A score of secret police sprang up in a moment and the offender (not the officer) was hustled off through an unfinished building, down back streets, to jail.

MCGILL BOY FATALLY BURNED BY POWDER

Zoran Reed, 13 years of age, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Reed, of Steptoe City, was fatally burned about 11 o'clock Friday morning and died as the result of his injuries. The little boy, with one of his playmates, entered the powder magazine of the Nevada Consolidated Copper company, where they cut open some powder with their knives. They then filled their pockets with the explosive, and a short distance away threw some of the powder on the ground and lighted it. The flames from the burning powder on the ground ignited that in the Reed boy's pocket and his clothing became almost instantly a mass of flames.

In an endeavor to tear off the burning clothing his companion badly burned his hands, but was not otherwise injured. The Reed boy attempted to run home, but was overcome.

MILLIONS FOR THE DISABLED

RELIEF FUNDS ASKED FOR THE DEPENDENTS OF JUNIOR OFFICERS

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, August 4.—Parliament will be asked to vote £6,000,000, including the million already voted, to provide supplementary pensions to widows and dependents of non-commissioned officers and men, particularly of those disabled.

CLEVER DEVICE TO BEAT SLOT MACHINES

Officer Lee Watstrom placed Allen Clark and J. C. Prentiss under arrest. Prentiss had a box of 1000 aluminum chips, bearing on one side the stamp of an eagle and the other side being blank. The chips were the same size as a quarter dollar piece of United States money.

It is alleged that the men had been using the chips to play in slot machines and when the chips were placed in a machine, with the eagle side in front, they had the appearance of quarters. They were given floaters. —Reno Journal.
